'Splendid' is the word that instantly strikes us as we enter the premises of the royal heritage hotel - Fort Unchagaon. Historical records suggest that the present Raja Surendra Pal Singh inherited Fort Unchagaon in 1927 at the tender age of ten. Finding it amazingly fascinating, the Raja personally supervised its renovation and maintenance. No wonder, we come across such a fine blend of early 20th century Indian and Colonial influences in its architecture!

The hotel is now equipped with every imaginable modern amenity, making it a much loved weekend getaway for close friends and relatives, who cherish a passion for the old zamindari way of life.

The décor of this majestic fort reflects authentic aristocracy in all its aspects. In the imposing white façade of the Surya Mahal, the understated elegance of the living rooms and the bedrooms has remained a way of life. Even the billiards room, with its display of magnificent trophies, is no exception.

The rooms and suites of Fort Unchagaon represent a curious mix of the conventional and the contemporary. Keeping in tune with the décor, the dining room is also a perfect example of royal taste. Here, you can enjoy traditional Indian cuisine and get transported to a world where you can feel history conversing with you!
